

"We would to thank everyone who visited our booth at the 2017 China Die Casting trade show in Shanghai. It was a great pleasure having all of you come by to see us."

Helmut Geiger, Managing Director

China is the most important automotive market in the world. This is why being at the 2017 China Die Casting trade show was so important to us.

The numerous conversations with customers, experts and interested parties provided us with important information about current trends and developments in the Chinese die casting industry.

The topics of Minimum Quantity Spraying and structural die casting came up frequently in the discussions.

This shows that our customers in China face the same challenges and questions as our customers in Europe.

Lightweight design, electromobility and increased environmental protection are factors that will lead to great changes but also new opportunities in the die casting industry in the coming years.

With our decades of experience and our global presence, we stand at the ready to assist you with our colleagues on-site as competent and highly effective partners.
